Maniac drink-driver jailed indefinitely

BY Toni Fairbairn

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

A MANIAC drunken driver who smashed a Jeep into two schoolboys then reversed over one of them as he fled the carnage was given an indefinite jail sentence this week

Daniel Vickers left Andrew Grove, then 15, and his friend Louis Haley, 16, fighting for their lives after the horror crash at a roundabout on the A142 at Fordham.

On Tuesday, Vickers, who torched and abandoned the Jeep minutes after the incident in the early hours of July 28, was handed an indeterminate prison term for public protection at Cambridge Crown Court.

Judge Jonathan Haworth branded Vickers – more than double the drink-drive limit and without a licence or insurance – a continuing risk to the public and set a minimum tariff of 21 months.

But the reality is the father-of-three will not be freed until the Parole Board considers he is no longer a danger.

Vickers, working as a driver transporting club doormen to and from jobs, was careering along at up to 100mph and swerving the Jeep from one side of the road to the other when he approached the roundabout at around 1.40am, Sara Walker, prosecuting, told the court.

■ CALLOUS . . . drink-driver Daniel Vickers smashed into two teenage boys then drove off leaving them fighting for their lives.

Andrew, Louis and two other school friends – Chris Warboys, 15, and Craig Armstrong, also 15 – were on their way home on foot from a party at Isleham and were sitting on the grassy area of the roundabout taking a rest before the next leg of their journey.

The Jeep appeared out of nowhere, mounted the sloping brick sides of the roundabout and became airborne, striking Andrew and Louis before hurtling into a roadside hedge.

As the two horrified friends went to help the injured teens, Vickers reversed over Andrew and sped off.

Both of the teenagers suffered devastating injuries. Andrew, from Exning, was in a coma by the time he was admitted to Addenbrooke's Hospital, and had swelling and bleeding to the brain as well as multiple broken bones. He was put on life support, underwent surgery and was in hospital for a month.

Louis, from Herringswell, near Bury St Edmunds, was also unconscious, and also suffered head trauma. His skull was fractured, his jaw broken, and he had fractured vertabrae and a host of other injuries. He also remained in hospital for almost four weeks.

Meanwhile, Vickers – who had a passenger in the Jeep at the time but refused to let him out, slow down, or tend to the injured youngsters – dropped him off in Newmarket and abandoned the vehicle at the Rowley Mile Racecourse, setting it ablaze in a bid to cover his tracks.

He then went to his employer, who owned the vehicle, to confess.

The errant Vickers handed himself in to police and a breath test almost five hours after the smash showed he was still over the alcohol limit. Back calculations estimate he was more than double the legal limit at the time of the accident.

Dubbing the episode as "a night of insanity", Ian Boyes, representing Vickers, who lived in the Newmarket area but was latterly of no fixed address, said his remorse for what happened was real and he could not justify his actions that night.

With previous convictions for violence, Vickers was on a suspended sentence at the time. He admitted charges of dangerous driving, arson, failing to stop after an accident, being without insurance or a licence and drink-driving.

He also pleaded guilty to an offence of fraud relating to an earlier incident when he posed as his employer to buy petrol.

Jailing him, Judge Haworth told him he had driven like a maniac and his subsequent actions were callous.

"The effect on your victims is tragic. Two young men suffered horrendous injury, had to be in intensive care, required intensive surgery and will never be the same young men again," he added.

Vickers was also banned from driving for six years and must take an extended re-test before ever being eligible to take to the wheel again.

Garden gates opened at an Impressionist idyll

A RARELY glimpsed garden with royal roots and a history dating back nearly a 1,000 years is opening to the public three times a year.

Chippenham Park, near Newmarket, has been in the Tharp family since 1791.

The current owner Anne Crawley, inherited the estate from her mother in 1985, and has been instrumental in developing the garden which now opens on three days under the National Garden Scheme's (NGS) Yellow Book.

As well as benefiting the national charities supported by the NGS, the open days last year succeeded in raising £10,000 for the village church.

Mrs Crawley's husband, Eustace, said: "She is entirely the driving force in the garden. I just follow behind her and pick up the rubbish."

The first open day of the year was held on Sunday, March 30, when most of the more than a million daffodils in the garden were in full bloom.

There will also be a summer open day on Sunday, June 22, and an autumn colour open day on Sunday, October 22. An Opera in the Park event is also planned for June 14.

Private visits by gardening societies and other organisations can be arranged at other times.

But there are plans for more regular open days next year when the gardens could be open for several days a week during a period of four or five months.

The gardens have their origins in Anglo-Dutch design with manmade waterways and a lake three quarters of a mile long which was created by John Tharp, who was also responsible for planting about two million trees on the estate.

After his death the estate fell into decline. But after William Montague Tharp inherited it in 1883, Chippenham became known for great country house parties whose guests included the Prince of Wales who came for racing at Newmarket and shooting.

The prince, later King Edward VII, was never allowed to bring his mistress Lily Langtry to Chippenham. She had to stay in nearby Kentford.

Part of the garden walk passes through a series of impressive arches covered in climbing roses and other flowers which are a copy of Monet's garden in France.

"When we came back from Monet's garden we showed a copy of a photograph to the local blacksmith and asked him: 'Could you make this?'" said Mr Crawley.

"But he said he didn't need to because he had the metal frames already. They were from old Nissen huts which had been put up in the park during the war when there were troops here."

The gardens are tended by "three and a half" staff – including the former head gardener Adrian Kidd, now 79, who specialises in tending the 471 roses.

One of the more recent developments has been clearing the previously overgrown walled vegetable garden to create a Spanish garden, mound and outdoor theatre.

Students join fight against phone mast

STUDENTS are fighting to have a mobile phone mast removed from outside their school.

Youngsters at Newmarket College fear the mast could cause health problems and have started a petition calling on phone company O2 to take it down.

The grey mast, which has been compared to a drainpipe or a chimney flue, appeared in Exning Road, Newmarket, earlier this year.

Councillors who complained about it later found out that O2 had been allowed to erect the mast on a technicality because Forest Heath District Council, the local planning authority, had failed to respond to a notification from the company within 56 days.

Richard Watson, the council's planning head, later apologised but he said the situation was "irretrievable".

However Newmarket Town Council is continuing to press for action to take down the mast. Now students at the college have launched a petition which they will pass to the phone company.

BY John Goode
Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

Tristan Pithers, head boy at the college and leader of the student council, said: "Our main concern is that there is no scientific evidence that it doesn't pose a health risk.

"As more and more students get to learn about it, they are getting more and more concerned.

"We are trying to find out whether or not it is illegal under the 1989 Children Act – no one thinks it's a good idea."

Students will ask shoppers to sign the petition outside some of the town's main supermarkets.

Residents living in Exning Road have complained that they were not consulted before the mast was put up, outside the new swimming pool for the town being built on the school and leisure centre site.

A spokeswoman for O2 said the company had acted legally in putting up the mast to help improve coverage in the Newmarket area for the latest generation of mobile phones.

Long road to recovery for teen crash victims

THE two teenage friends left fighting for survival after maniac drink-driver Daniel Vickers hit them have begun a long road to recovery.

Andrew Grove, now 16, of Lacey's Lane, Exning, is due to take his GCSEs but only returned to school on Friday for the first time since the smash last July that almost claimed his life.

Both he and Louis Haley, now 17, of Herringswell, Bury St Edmunds, have had to have surgery for devastating injuries and continue to need intensive therapy and rehabilitation.

Andrew's mother, Mrs Julie Grove, was in court for Vickers' case, and as she began to digest the sentence, said: "There was no rhyme or reason for what he did. He should never have been driving."

Ironically, the boys had tried to get a taxi home from the party that night, but none was available because it was a racing day at Newmarket and they were in heavy demand.

"Andrew was into his sport, but there's no question of that now. He's got a long haul ahead of him. But he's here. We thank our lucky stars that the others were with them, otherwise who knows what would have happened."

It is the second time the Grove family have suffered calamity on the roads. Mrs Grove's husband, Nigel, was seriously injured in a head-on collision 16 years ago.

"We could not have got through this without the help of many close friends and family," Mrs Grove added.

Schools closed as teachers take strike action over pay

SCHOOLS will be hit by a teachers' strike today.

Some schools with a high proportion of members of the National Union of Teachers will be closed.

In the Newmarket area the town's two middle schools, Scaltback and St Felix, will be closed and Newmarket College, the upper school will be partially closed.

But all primary schools in the town are expected to stay open.

Phil Vigrass, head of St Felix school, sent out a letter to parents on Friday warning them that the school would be closed.

"It's regrettable, but my first responsibility is the safety of the children and we won't have enough staff to ensure that on Thursday," he warned.

Schools in the Haverhill and Mildenhall areas are also expected to be closed.

A Suffolk County Council spokesman said the full effect of the strike was not clear at this stage. But he said a list of schools which would be closed would be shown on the county council's website.

There is also a telephone hot line 0845 6031842 which is staffed 8.30am - 6pm weekdays.

The NUT is staging the national strike over pay. The last national strike by teachers was more than 20 years ago.

Charity dogs helped to take the lead

CHARITY cash collected by a Lions Club will help pay for the training of a hearing dog for a deaf person.

Members of Newmarket Lions were introduced to Scampi, a trained hearing dog, when they presented £2,000 to the Hearing Dogs for the Deaf organisation.

The club members heard, at their meeting at the town's Rutland Arms Hotel, that it costs £5,000 to totally train a dog. But the first nine months of social training costs £1,000.

The money was raised from race nights organised by the club and from the Two Counties Motorshow at Newmarket Racecourse which is organised by the Lions Clubs of Newmarket, Ely and Cambridge and supported by our sister paper the Cambridge Evening News.

All ages try bowls

Around 70 people took part in the "come and try" sessions at Newmarket Avenue Bowls Club on Sunday.

Some of the visitors are expected to join the club.

Tony Taylor, club secretary said: "It was an excellent day all round which will certainly give the club some valuable new members in all aspects."

For more information about the club contact Mr Taylor on (01638) 667359 or 07770 871887.

Recycling a major part of village's scarecrow festival

RECYCLING will be the theme of a village's popular scarecrow festival which will be staged for the seventh time this year.

Villagers at Barton Mills, which has previously earned a place in the Guinness Book of Records for the festival, are gearing up for the two-day event by making dogs to be "best friends" to the scarecrows.

The papier-mache pooches will also be judged in the village's answer to Crufts alongside real dogs.

A special evening get-together was organised by Lis and Colin Brotherton, leading organisers of the festival, to give tips on how to contruct a recycled dog.

The festival has raised thousands of pounds for local charities and in particular the preservation trust responsible for the village's 900-year-old church.

Money raised from this year's festival, on June 7 and 8, will go to similar causes.

Most of the village takes part in the event and an extra attraction this year will be a competition for the "Turn-off Prize" – the village's answer to the controversial Turner Prize for modern art.

Villagers are being asked to construct a work of art from recycled materials and the organisers are hoping that a personality will come to judge it.

Player who hit ref put on probation

BY John Goode
Email: editorial@
newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

A YOUNG footballer knocked a referee out after being sent off.

Jonathan Futter, 22, hit referee Samuel Douglas in the face after being dismissed in a match between two village sides.

The blow knocked Mr Douglas to the ground and caused him to black out temporarily. Mr Douglas, who was 19 at the time, later needed eight stitches to his lip where a tooth went through it.

Futter, who plays for West Row Gunners, has already been given an indefinite nationwide ban by Suffolk FA with the punishment not due for review until January 2013.

And at Bury St Edmunds magistrates' court on Thursday he was given an 18-week prison sentence, suspended for two years.

Futter, of Peterhouse Close, Mildenhall, admitted causing actual bodily harm to Mr Douglas in what was described as "30 seconds of recklessness."

He was also made the subject of two years supervision by the probation service, ordered to do 100 hours unpaid community service and complete an anger management course.

■ RECKLESS . . . Jonathan Futter has received a nationwide ban.

In addition he was ordered to pay £500 compensation to Mr Douglas and £60 prosecution costs.

Sarah-Jane Atkins, prosecuting, told the court the incident happened on Saturday, December 8, at West Row's Chapel Road pitch during a match with Exning.

Mr Douglas later told police he was about to give Futter a second yellow card and send him off.

"I called him aside and explained what I had seen him do and said: 'Calm down'," Mr Douglas said in a statement read to the court.

After being told he was being sent off, Futter took a couple of steps away. The referee said he felt a hand on his shoulder before being punched in the face.

"I blacked out momentarily and saw blood and fell to the ground," said Mr Douglas, who went to Addenbrooke's Hospital for treatment.

Miss Atkins said: "A large number of people were at the match who witnessed the incident and that included children."

Futter later voluntarily went to Mildenhall police station and admitted what he had done.

Miss Atkins said he had three previous convictions for assault between 2002 and 2004 and was given a warning for actual bodily harm in 2001.

Kevin McCarthy, defence solicitor, said: "It was a derby match between two local villages, passions were high and adrenaline was high."

He said the incident was over in just 30 seconds of reckless behaviour.

He said Futter denied putting his hand on the referee's shoulder and said he had just lashed out.

"He got angry and frustrated and hit the referee because he was going to be sent off."

Car drives itself and bursts into flames

A CAR drove off on its own and burst into flames in an early morning incident.

Residents in George Lambton Avenue, Newmarket, were woken by the car alarm at about 3.30am on Monday and were amazed to see it travel about 100 yards by itself before coming to a halt on a grass verge where it burst into flames.

An electrical fault is believed to have caused the car to drive off on its own.

Firefighters extinguished the blaze. But the car, a Vauxhall Cavalier, was destroyed.

A Suffolk police spokeswoman said: "Three witnesses said they saw the car moving with no driver inside."

She said it was thought that an electrical short-circuit may have caused the car to start itself and drive off on its own.

"While it's a very strange incident, it is not thought to have been arson or suspicious," she said.

Airman grounded from UK's roads

AN AMERICAN airman caught drink-driving has been banned from British roads for a year.

Steven Estevane, 23, told District Judge David Cooper, sitting at Bury St Edmunds Magistrates' Court, that he would be leaving Britain in eight months.

The judge had offered him the option of reducing the ban to nine months by undertaking a drink-drive rehabilitation course.

Estevane, of Kennett Road, Herringswell, near Newmarket, told the court he had been based in Britain since 2004 at RAF Lakenheath.

His breath-test reading was 44mcg. The legal limit is 35 mcg.

Estevane was fined £250, plus a £15 victim surcharge and £60 prosecution costs.

Fake £20 notes surface in shops

POLICE have warned shop staff to be on the lookout for fake £20 notes.

A number of attempts were made to pass notes for "low value" items in Newmarket on Sunday.

The notes were used in High Street shops and in the town's Guineas shopping centre.

Police have advised shops to use special infra-red pens or light boxes to check notes.

Anyone with information about the incidents, which happened between 10am and 3pm, should call Pc Chris Strahm (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555111.

■ LASTING LEGACY . . . Pauline Hawes' family and friends gather to hand over the land to the village in her memory. CP.

Family's meadow memorial to mum

A NEW nature reserve has been named in memory of a woman whose family owned the land.

When Pauline Hawes died in 2005, her family wanted to keep her memory alive with a special tribute. They decided to name a local beauty spot after her and donate the land to their village for everyone to enjoy.

The land, at Burwell, was officially handed over by members of her family to the parish council which intends to make the land ready for public use and to allow local school children to carry out environmental studies.

It has been named Pauline's Swamp in her memory.

The land, off Reach Road, has been owned by the Hawes family for many years but Paul Hawes said his wife would have been pleased and proud that it had been given to the village to enjoy.

He said: "The site has already been designated as a nature reserve and it seems a shame to keep it hidden where nobody can enjoy it.

"It is really a water meadow rather than a swamp, but the soil is very wet and marshy so somehow Pauline's Swamp seems a much more exciting name for it."

A special trust has been set up by the village to carry out essential work to make the site safe and easily accessible to the public. A public open day will be held during the summer when the work is complete.

Car stolen at banger rally

A LAND Rover Freelander was stolen from the car park at Mildenhall Stadium while a banger race meeting was taking place.

The blue vehicle, registration G19 AJD, was stolen from outside the stadium, in Hayland Drove, West Row, between 5.30pm and 9.30pm on Saturday. The car contained a child car seat, a pushchair, glasses and a DVD player.

Anyone with information should call Pc Terence Harvey at Mildenhall police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Motorcyclist found injured

A MOTORCYCLIST was injured when he fell off his motorcycle in Fordham Road, Newmarket, close to the town's Clocktower road junction on Monday.

A police spokeswoman said it was unclear whether the motorcycle had been in collision with a car.

An ambulance and emergency doctor Paul Silverston were called to the scene and the man was taken to West Suffolk Hospital, Bury St Edmunds, with minor injuries.

Junction fears for flats development

A MAJOR development next to one of Newmarket's main road junctions is facing opposition.

Plans for a restaurant and flats on a former tyre depot at the busy Clocktower Junction are set to be controversial.

Councillor Bill Burch, Newmarket's mayor, said: "I shudder to think what disruption will be caused by a development on that junction.

"My personal view is that we don't need another development like this with the plans for restaurants and flats on the Technical Institute site – only a few yards away."

The junction is already set for a major revamp by Suffolk County Council, the roads authority. Work on the £600,000 road changes is due to start this year.

Now Wrenbridge, a Cambridge-based property company, has announced it has bought the site at the junction of Bury Road and Old Station Road for an undisclosed amount.

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

An application for planning permission has not so far been made. But the company has said an application is due to be made to Forest Heath District Council later this year with the aim of completing the development by late 2009.

Jeff Wilson, associate director at Wrenbridge, said: "We are delighted with this acquisition. The site is in Newmarket's most prominent location, providing us with a number of options.

"We are taking a very flexible approach to the site. We expect there to be a high demand from restaurant occupiers due to its attractive position and we are eager to start development."

It is undecided yet as to whether Wrenbridge will complete development alone or seek a specialist development partner.

Agents Savills advised Wrenbridge on the acquisition.

The scheme, likely to cost several million pounds, is the third major development planned in Newmarket town centre.

Permission has already been granted for the redevelopment of the Technical Institute site, at the junction of Fordham Road and Fred Archer Way, with a complex of three restaurants with flats above.

London-based developers Reef Estates previously said it was keen to go ahead with the £8 million scheme this year.

Work on a £4 million extension of the town's Guineas shopping centre is due to start this summer.

Purse thieves strike again

A WOMAN'S purse was stolen while she was shopping in Newmarket High Street.

The woman, who was in her 60s, noticed that the purse, containing around £40, was missing at around 9.45am on Saturday.

It is the latest in a series of purse thefts in the town. Police have reminded shoppers to keep their purses secure and attach free cat bells, available from the town's police station, to their bags to give a warning.

Anyone with information about the latest incident should call Sergeant Keith Grant at Newmarket police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555111.

WEEKLY NEWS Letters

THE Newmarket Weekly News welcomes your views. Write to: Readers' Letters, Newmarket Weekly News, 15 High Street, Newmarket, CB8 8LX or send an email to editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk Please be as concise as possible and attach your full name, address and telephone number.

A closer choice for local letters

Sir, With reference to the article on Page 9 (Fears grow for doomed post offices, Newmarket Weekly News, April 17).

It is stated that once Exning Road Post Office closes the nearest office after the High Street is Moulton.

We own and run Exning Post Office which is just under a mile from Exning Road and about two and half miles from the High Street. Also we, along with the High Street office, are the designated receiving offices for Exning Road should the closure go ahead as we are the nearest.

The people most affected by this proposed closure are on the Exning side of Newmarket not the Moulton side!

The Post Office Network change site has the correct facts. Have a look at the following: http://www.postoffice.co.uk/portal/po/content1?catId=57600693&mediaId=57600697

The closure areas are in date order and Norfolk and West Suffolk are March 26, 2008 – then select the branch access report and find the page for Exning Road.

If the Exning Road closure goes ahead and we do not receive a reasonable proportion of their customers then the future of our office is also in the balance. The whole point of the closure programme is to make the remaining offices viable. Warning potential customers that their nearest office is miles away does not help in this delicate state of the operations.

Parking rules emptied shops and filled streets

Sir, Peter Sturgeon seems to have a problem with a consultation carried out by Forest Heath District Council (Don't construe united silence as unitary support, Weekly News Letters, April 17) Is he surprised, shocked, what?

FHDC was eventually forced into a referendum on Newmarket's car parking charges – that bonus for Newmarket which has filled all the local streets with double yellow lines, parking wardens and emptied the shops. Most of your readers will recollect how well attended it was, especially given that FHDC avoided telling anyone where or when the vote was. Of course they also ignored the outcome as they evidently know best. But then, as I said in my last letter, the people of this area must enjoy being treated like this as they voted the same people back in.

I daresay Mr Spring will also be voted in, even though he is from the same mould – Conservative – and has been part of a party supporting the first-past-the-post system of denial of democracy in this country.

Trainers should realise it's not a one-horse town

Sir, With reference to the flats development on Bury Road, Newmarket (Listen to us, demand heritage protesters, Newmarket Weekly News, April 17).

Don't you think that all the trainers only put into this protest because they are narrow minded and don't want Newmarket to grow?

The trainers get away with stuff all the time and wouldn't want us outside their yards protesting the fact that they pull up in their cars on the pavement and obstruct pedestrians on the Bury Road or the fact that they unload their lorries on the main road and hold up traffic then complain about the noise, or that their horses have been obstructing business and residents alike for years now without a care in the world when they could have clubbed together to make an underpass for horses to cross over from the heath.

They seem to think that they can park wherever they like, whenever they like.

The Bury Road is a main artery into the town yet they have three horse crossings on it, increasing the risk of an accident happening.

These people do not care about Newmarket, just themselves and the money they make.

My view is that they are out of touch with Newmarket's progression and that there are a lot more things going on in Newmarket now not just horses and they should be prepared to consider others for a change!

Drivers caught in police crackdown

A DAY of action by police, trading standards and revenue and customs officers led to more than 100 fixed penalty tickets being issued.

In the Forest Heath district, which includes Newmarket and Mildenhall, 80 vehicles were stopped and 16 fixed penalty tickets were issued for speeding. A further five tickets were issued for seatbelt offences, one for using a mobile phone and one for a number plate offence.

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

A further 25 people were cautioned for speeding and two drivers were reported for having no insurance.

In Haverhill, 30 drivers were stopped in the town centre as officers enforced traffic restrictions in High Street. Three fixed penalty tickets were issued for failing to comply with the restrictions.

A further 14 drivers were giving warnings for speeding and one was reported for prosecution. A further five were given speeding tickets.

Two fixed-penalty tickets were handed out for seatbelt offences.

The day of action – the third of its kind carried out by Suffolk police – was hailed a success by Chief Inspector Neal Atwell.

He said: "The aim of this operation was to raise the awareness of offences that can, and often do, lead to serious injuries or deaths."

Morrison out of race concert

RECORDING commitments have caused James Morrison, pictured right, to pull out of his gig at Newmarket racecourse this summer.

The young singer, who made an immediate impact on the pop scene in 2006 with top selling singles and an album, was due to have performed at one of the Newmarket Nights shows after racing on Friday, July 25.

But he has announced that he cannot appear due to work on his second album, leaving racecourse chiefs the headache of finding a replacement at short notice.

He said: "I'm afraid that due to some diary changes for the recording of the new album, it will be impossible for me to get out of the studio, play the gigs and put on a great show. I hope everyone will understand and know that I'll try my best to make it up to you as soon as I'm able."

Racecourse promoters hope to announce a replacement act in the next couple of weeks.

Tickets already purchased for James Morrison will be valid for the replacement act. But the racecourse will also give full refunds for anyone not wanting to keep their tickets.

Girls Aloud have filled the slot on July 18 which was originally booked for the 1980s reggae band.

Tickets for the seven Newmarket Nights are reported to be selling well with the first night, featuring Canadian rocker Bryan Adams, on June 20, already sold out.

It is the first time that the opening night of the series will have a capacity crowd.

Last year the only capacity audience at the July Racecourse was when Madness performed. The band are part of this year's line-up on August 8.

Other acts include Jools Holland and his Rhythm and Blues Orchestra plus featured artists, The Feeling and Boyzone.

Buying in to healthy food

■ TASTY TREAT . . . top chef Tony Toby shows that a good kitchen is the heart of the home. Picture: Richard Marsham 480163.

Tony, who has appeared on BBC TV's Ready Steady Cook, used the kitchen in the show home at the Kings Meadow development off Duchess Drive, Newmarket, to give cookery tips.

Rebecca Littler, sales and marketing director of developer David Wilson Homes Eastern Counties, said: "Tony Tobin's visit here at Kings Meadow has proven to be a real success. His excellent cooking demonstrations of healthy snacks in the Brandenburg show home's kitchen allowed visitors to see how a thoughtfully designed heart of the home can cater for family living and at-home entertaining."

The development of four and five bedroomed homes, with prices starting at nearly £580,000, was built on 28 acres of former paddocks.

Any visitors who decided to buy one of the houses had the chance of winning a visit by Tony Tobin to cook a meal in their new home.

Man's 'heart stopped' after digger ordeal

The 36-year-old maintenance contractor was trapped under the metal shovel of the digger he was working on at an asphalt works.

He suffered serious injuries including broken ribs, a possible broken pelvis and back injuries.

His heart is reported to have stopped but he was revived by doctors and ambulance crews who were called to the incident at the Hanson Aggregates site in Kennett on Friday.

The man was freed after fire crews used special airbags to lift the bucket, thought to weigh more than a tonne.

The East Anglian Air Ambulance helicopter landed at the site with two doctors on board to help in the rescue. But he was taken to Cambridge's Addenbrooke's Hospital by road ambulance.

The man, who has not been named, was employed by national company Pirtek and was called to the site to replace a leaking hydraulic hose on the "loading shovel" as the digger is known.

The machine is used to load stone into the asphalt plant and the bucket is capable of lifting up to eight tonnes.

The bucket is understood to have been raised while he was working on the machine. But it came down, trapping him underneath. Workers at the site tried to free him before fire crews arrived.

The incident is now being investigated by the Health and Safety Executive.

A spokesman for Hanson Aggregates said: "We are co-operating fully with the investigation.

"We wish the injured man well and hope he can make a full recovery."

The man was said to be in a "stable" condition in hospital on Tuesday.

National Stud changes hands and is now controlled by Jockey Club

In our weekly column, reporter JOHN GOODE takes a look behind the racing scene to bring you news from in and around the stables.

■ HORSING AROUND . . . the first foal born at the National Stud this year enjoys time in the paddock with her mother, Just Dreams.

FORMALITIES have been completed to transfer ownership of Newmarket's National Stud to The Jockey Club.

The Stud, which has been established on 500 acres of Jockey Club land at Newmarket for more than 40 years, was formerly owned by the government through the Horserace Betting Levy Board.

Now ownership has been passed to The Jockey Club after the conclusion of lengthy negotiations.

Under the terms of the transfer, The Jockey Club have agreed to continue to provide the National Stud's unique educational and training schemes for stud staff, as well as public access to the stud, for a minimum of five years.

With the transfer confirmed, The Jockey Club unveiled the composition of the Board of National Stud Limited. Joining chairman, Christopher Spence, are the senior steward, Julian Richmond-Watson, Chris Harper, Peter Stanley and Christopher Foster.

Mr Spence said: "Our thanks go to all those at the Levy Board, at DCMS and in particular the team at the National Stud who have played a part in facilitating the transfer. The Jockey Club is very proud to have been given the opportunity to take on the National Stud. Preserving the heritage of British thoroughbred breeding, as well as the pursuit of excellence through the provision of education and training services, sit very well alongside the Club's overall aims and objectives."

Mr Richmond-Watson, senior steward of The Jockey Club, said: "The transfer marks the start of a new chapter in the history of the National Stud and we are very much looking forward to working with the breeding industry to ensure that the Stud delivers benefits to all those involved in the breeding and racing of the thoroughbred."

The Stud, next to Newmarket's July Racecourse, is the home to six stallions and is visited by more than 200 mares each year. More than 100 foals are born there every year.

Rare chance to look at work of training yards

RACEGOERS at Newmarket will be able to have a rare behind-the-scenes view of a racehorse trainer's yard.

Two trainers will be opening their yards during the Stan Jamesuk Guineas Festival weekend on Saturday, May 3, and Sunday, May 4.

Stephen Wallis, Newmarket's managing director, said: "Newmarket is a town like nowhere else on earth, where the racehorse is king and where there are so many interesting horseracing-related places to visit. We hope to enable a small number of our racegoers to visit some of these prior to racing on our bigger days.

"We have been running our Home of Horseracing tours for the past few years which have included visits to Dalham Hall Stud, Rossdales Veterinary Centre, William Haggas's training yard and Clive Brittain's training yard. Each of the visits where hugely popular with our race goers, with a number of them selling-out in a very short time."

One of Newmarket's newest trainers, Irishman David Lanigan, will be opening his Revida Place stables in Hamilton Road on Saturday, May 3.

The tours are run from the racecourse from 10.30am and have to be booked in advance at a price of £10 per person.

Racecourse bosses have warned that previous tours sold out very quickly and advance booking is essential. Tickets can be booked by calling the racecourse box office (01638) 675500.

Punters pack the track as racing season gallops off to a flying start

THE horseracing season at Newmarket got under way with the first meeting of the year on the historic Rowley Mile course.

The glitz and glamour of racing returned after a winter break of nearly six months.

Although the opening Craven Meeting, which concludes today, does not attract the same attention as next month's Stan James Guineas Festival, there was still plenty to interest the crowds – from the casual racegoer to the keen punter.

Top jockey Frankie Dettori marked his return to racing in Britain after spending the winter in Dubai. He had six rides at Newmarket to keep his fans happy.

The course itself has changed very little in more than 300 years when King Charles II, who had a palace in the town, would watch the racing from the Rowley Mile's famous bushes.

Now the thousands of racegoers have modern facilities in the multi-million pound Millennium Grandstand.

Racing will continue at the NatWest Rowley Mile until June, when the summer season at the neighbouring July course starts, and, with it, the popular Newmarket Nights series of Friday evening race meetings followed by top pop concerts.

The town's two racecourses had 372,000 visitors last year on the 38 days of racing.

The same number of race days are being held this year, although some fixtures have been rejigged from last year's calendar.

Stephen Wallis, who is starting his first season as managing director of Newmarket Racecourses, said: "It's going to be a very special year at Newmarket Racecourses.

"Newmarket has something for everyone – serious, world-class racing on The NatWest Rowley Mile, top-class racing in a garden-party atmosphere at The Ritz Club July Festival, relaxed summer Saturdays on the July Course and the pulsating music nights on the summer Fridays.

"It makes a wonderfully unique mix of sport and entertainment. With the 200th running of the 2000 Guineas to celebrate, the entry of the Darley July Cup into the Global Sprint Challenge followed in October by Britain's new richest raceday, we really have something to shout about at the Home of Racing this year."

Could you be a friend to someone in need?

In this month's column, Jacquie Schaerer, from The Voluntary Network, looks at how volunteers can make a huge difference just by listening.

THE VOLUNTARY NETWORK

There are still too many people in our community who feel lonely and isolated. Having someone special to come and visit from time to time would make such a difference.

Could you offer your friendship to one of them? Friendship is a relationship which, broadly speaking, involves sharing, the sharing of mutual interest, reciprocity and trust.

If you are adaptable, a good listener, reliable, tactful, understanding and sensitive, please get in touch with us on (01638) 608048.

Your companionship and friendship is mostly needed by elderly, isolated, sometimes housebound people. Just someone to talk to – to share the thoughts of the moment and the past, even though, sometimes the memory is not what it used to be – would be so much appreciated.

To visit once a week for a special chat and a cup of tea, or even better, if at all possible, to accompany them on a short outing, either shopping or simply a walk in the garden, is what most of them are looking for.

Historically females are more willing to volunteer, but we do have requests from males too and they would feel much more comfortable if one of their own gender would visit.

We do have, of course, a variety of other opportunities for short and long term volunteering available too and we would be happy to give you all the relevant information upon request.

I am looking forward to hearing from you.

Police smelled drug fumes in suspect car

POLICE discovered a strong smell of cannabis in a car they stopped after seeing it being driven erratically.

They arrested the driver, Vietnamese manicurist Vinh Van Nguyen, after finding bags of waste in the boot from cannabis farms which he had been involved with.

A woman passenger ran off into the nearby forest, after the car was stopped on the A11 at Elveden, and has not been traced.

Nguyen, 39, had been paid between £220 and £500 to clear out up to 10 houses which had been converted into drug farms, Ipswich Crown Court heard.

Houses in Gorse Close, Red Lodge, and Friday Street, West Row, near Mildenhall, were among three raided by police the next day and hundreds of cannabis plants were seized.

Nguyen, an illegal immigrant, was recommended for deportation after he is released from the two-year prison sentence imposed by Judge John Holt.

The judge said that the 234 days Nguyen has already served while awaiting sentence would be taken into account when deciding his release date. Nguyen admitted three charges of involvement with cannabis production.

Lindsay Cox, prosecuting, said that all the properties converted into drug farms had been rented by Vietnamese people who claimed to be working at nail bars in Mildenhall, Newmarket, Ely and Bury St Edmunds.

Amrik Wahiwala, mitigating, said that Nguyen, who arrived in the UK in 2002 had paid members of a Russian gang $5,000 to smuggle him into the country from his native Vietnam.

Mr Wahiwala said Nguyen's family had borrowed to find the money to pay for him to illegally enter Britain but found themselves unable to repay it.

That was why he had taken asuccession of unofficial jobs culminating in helping with the cannabis crop.

Stud farm sells to defy market woes

A STUD farm has been sold for around £2 million.

Moorland Stud Farm, in Kentford, was sold through the Cambridge office of property firm Carter Jonas.

It includes a detached period farmhouse, two cottages, farm buildings, stables and about 283 acres of land.

It was offered for sale by private treaty in seven lots at a guide price of £2 million.

Jeremy Zeid, a partner in the Cambridge office of Carter Jonas who handled the sale, said: "The market for equestrian and agricultural properties is holding up well in the context of the hardening of the wider residential housing market.

"Historically, property with land – whether it be for agriculture, equestrian activity or, simply, for amenity – is more resilient than mainstream properties to market fluctuations."

■ NOT HAPPY . . . campaigners on the march last year, protesting over the sale of the church hall.

Campaigners give up bid to save their church hall

BY Jack Grove

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

CAMPAIGNERS fighting to save a church hall from destruction have conceded defeat.

Members of the Soham Community Hall Trust wanted to buy the derelict hall at St Andrew's Church and convert it to community use.

They won permission to convert it, even though they did not own it, but it soon became clear they would not be able to raise the £1 million to buy and renovate the building.

Now a planning application has been submitted for the land by developers Amber Housing, who want to build 13 homes there. The church has already accepted a bid of more than £500,000 from the Godmanchester-based firm.

Archaeological surveys are under way and the hall has been fenced off in anticipation of East Cambridgeshire District Council giving the scheme the go-ahead next month.

Campaigner Peter Beer said: "I think it is now a lost battle. An alternative has not been put forward and we need to accept there is no way to stop it.

"People are not happy, but there is not much more we can do. We thought we could get support from the district council, but without it we didn't have a leg to stand on."

A spokesman for the parochial church council said the church would have been delighted to accept a community bid, but doubted the funds could be raised.

Cash concern for schools over number of languages

NEARLY 100 languages are spoken in Cambridgeshire classrooms, with extra support and teaching for speakers of foreign languages costing £1.5 million over the last three years.

Figures obtained under the Freedom of Information Act show 95 languages are spoken in Cambridgeshire schools, with numbers swelled by the influx of eastern Europeans following European Union expansion in 2004.

Cambridgeshire County Council insists its funding lags behind other parts of the country, and has echoed Cambridgeshire Chief Constable Julie Spence's calls for extra cash to meet the county's increasing population.

Bethan Rees, manager of the council's Cambridgeshire Race Equality and Diversity Service (CREDS), said: "There is never enough funding available. We could do with double what we get, but Cambridgeshire is not very well funded.

"For instance, our Ethnic Minorities Achievement Grant (EMAG) is £390,000. Lancashire gets £3 million. What we get is based on figures, but they count numbers rather than what people's needs are."

BY Stephen Exley

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

Schools receive the EMAG specifically to tackle underachievement among ethnic minorities, usually by investing in extra language teachers and teaching assistants.

After 10 new countries joined the EU, £565,579 was spent in Cambridgeshire on supporting youngsters in the county's schools in 2004/05. The total dropped to £434,318 in 2005/06, but rose again to £460,512 in 2006/07.

The most common foreign language in Cambridgeshire schools is Polish with 444 speakers, followed by Bengali and Chinese, spoken by 395 and 264 youngsters respectively.

Out of the 77,808 children at the county's nursery, primary, secondary and special schools in January, 4,625 had a first language other than English.

There are 22 languages which are only spoken by a single youngster, including Icelandic, Bikol (used in parts of the Philippines), Amharic (which hails from Ethiopia) and Catalan, which is spoken in north-east Spain.

Councillor Jill Tuck, cabinet member for children and young people's services, said: "We fully support the work of the CREDS team, and we are doing as much as we possibly can to support the speakers of other languages in our schools.

■ SUPPORTIVE . . . Cllr Jill Tuck, cabinet member for children and young people's services.

"The funding we get from the Government is not as much as we need, but we aim to provide as much support as we possibly can."

Julian Gordon, assistant director of inclusion at the Parkside Federation, said the Coleridge and Parkside schools have pupils who speak a total of 21 different languages at home, including Hebrew, Arabic, Korean and Gujurati.

The federation offers an out-of-school international club and one-to-one mentoring from volunteers and students, but Mr Gordon said it tries to keep youngsters in mainstream classes to allow them to develop alongside their year group.

He said: "We try to get them to work in the classroom where they can access the same facilities and information as the other students.

"It's very difficult for youngsters when they move to a new country. But children are quite resilient – the younger they are, they easier they adapt."

The issue of immigration causing spiralling costs to Cambridgeshire public services was first raised by Mrs Spence, who hit the headlines last year after calling for an extra £17 million to pay for 100 extra officers she believes are needed in the county.

Figures released in February showed the number of migrant workers employed in Cambridgeshire rose from 19,000 in 2004/05 to 41,000 – 15 per cent of the total workforce – in 2006-07.

The county council's schools budget for 2008/09 is £295 million.

Teachers walk out in pay fight

SCHOOL closures will rock the region today as teachers cut class.

Hundreds of people are expected to attend a rally, staged by the NUT, which will kick off at Cambridge Guildhall at noon.

By early this week Cambridgeshire County Council had received 76 replies from the 250 schools they had contacted. And they predicted the number of primary and secondary schools with teachers taking part in the industrial action – which then stood at 18 in the county council's area – would have at least tripled by today.

Thousands of schoolchildren will be forced to stay at home during the protest, but secondary schools have promised to keep their Year 11 classes running in light of the looming GCSEs.

The large response has come after teachers rejected a 2.45 per cent pay rise, even though it was more than the 2 per cent targeted for public sector pay rises, and above that offered to nurses and police. The NUT believes accepting the pay offer would lead to around seven years of below-inflation pay rises and had asked for a 10 per cent rise.

Members of the Public and Commercial Services Union (PCS) and University and College Union (UCU) will also strike today.

Lecturers, who are joined to the UCU, will strike over a six per cent pay raise – or £1,500. And members of the PCS, working across 10 Government departments and agencies, will also protest at the Government's policy to cap public sector pay to below inflation, which they believe will result in cuts to living standards across the civil service.

Parents of pupils at affected schools have been told they will have to make other arrangements as a result of the strike.

No extra funds but talks positive, says police chief

TOP-LEVEL funding talks between Cambridgeshire police chief constable Julie Spence, and the Home Secretary, Jacqui Smith, have been described as "positive".

Mrs Spence said an announcement of interim funding to deal with the impact of immigration is "very pleasing".

She is cautiously optimistic about the move, saying the "devil will be in the detail" and there will be no increase in funding for the stretched Cambridgeshire force in the short term.

Mrs Spence said her message about the costs involved in working with immigrants, whether they are victims of crime, witnesses or offenders, had got through to Government and it now recognised there was an issue with out of date population data being used to calculate funding.

Mrs Spence spoke after a summit on immigration and crime attended by 42 other chief constables at Westminster. She said: "The good thing from our perspective was that, although it doesn't look as if long term funding will change in the next three years, they have recognised that the Office of National Statistics data is not quick enough to respond to changes and therefore this does impact on the money we actually get. They are going to try to resolve that over the next couple of years. The funding formula for 2011/12 would start to be more reflective of population.

BY Rachel Extance

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

"There will be a fund to mitigate transitional impacts. That fund comes in in 2009 and they want to consult on how that will be distributed.

"That would, I think, help with translation costs, help with some policing costs put into operations, a whole range of issues that migration and immigration bring that we currently don't have a budget for."

Mrs Spence began her campaign for more funding to cope with policing Cambridgeshire's growing population in September.

She demanded an extra £2 million a year to recruit 100 more officers and said her force had been "short-changed" by £17.4 million since 2002.

She said other forces such as Northamptonshire and Lincolnshire had similar problems, but the impact of migration and immigration did not affect every force in the country.

Mrs Spence said: "They clearly do understand the issue now and it shows the campaign we have run from September has helped them to understand."

She said she would keep pushing for "fair funding" but for the moment would assess what the Government had said.

Mrs Spence said "It was never going to be a quick fix. The good thing is we've got it started now.

"We need to assess what it looks like and normally there can often be a difference between announcement and reality and I shall wait to see what the reality looks like."

■ POSITIVE TALKS . . . Julie Spence, Cambridgeshire Chief Constable, says the Government now understands better the challenges facing police forces around the country.

Warning over bogus callers

FIRE chiefs are assuring residents that all staff carry official identification after two bogus firemen gained access to a residential home.

The men, wearing blue uniforms with badges saying "Fire and Rescue Service", questioned staff about sprinklers and whether they had a panic alarm system. The staff became suspicious.

Cambridgeshire Fire and Rescue Service has issued a warning as the men were not part of the force.

Robert Saddington, fire safety officer, said: "Our personnel always carry ID cards and we would encourage residents to ask to see them.

"If people are still unsure, they can ring the fire service headquarters on (01480) 444500, or ring their local fire station to get the name verified."

He said staff usually arranged meetings to discuss fire safety in advance, but did sometimes call to ask if residents would like a free home fire safety check.

He said: "Where we do this, we are always happy to arrange another date and time to come back. It's important to note we never sell anything either."

Colonel joins up

CAMBRIDGESHIRE Army Cadets are to welcome a new honorary Colonel.

Hugh Duberly, CBE is already Lord Lieutenant for Cambridgeshire and is looking forward to his new role.

He said: "This is a key position with opportunity to influence the future development of local youth. I intend to work closely with the officers, staff and young people of Cambridgeshire ACF to ensure every opportunity is realised to promote their well being."

Experts dig deep to find answers

■ SPRING SHOW . . . the Gardeners' Question Time team, front from left, Peter Gibbs, Matthew Biggs, Bob Flowerdew and Bunny Guinness with Barton Mills club members, back from left, Glenda Berrett, Sue Little, Colin Howard, Kathy Baalham and George Baalham.

Picture by Richard Patterson 479239.

CELEBRITY gardeners answered a range of queries when the BBC Radio 4 programme Gardeners' Question Time was recorded.

Organic gardening expert Bob Flowerdew together with Bunny Guinness and Matthew Biggs were in Mildenhall when Barton Mills and District Gardening Club hosted the programme.

A near-capacity crowd of 200 filled the hall at Mildenhall Social Club as two shows were recorded for airing later in the year.

Glenda Berrett, a committee member from the Barton Mills club, organised the evening.

She said: "It was very successful. I think most people enjoyed it and 60 to 70 per cent of people were able to ask questions. I'm sure it will be edited for the programmes."

One programme is due to be aired on June 1 and another, which will highlight the Barton Mills area, is due to be aired on August 24.

Happy laughs

THE Mancunian funnyman John Bishop comes to The Junction in Cambridge next Wednesday.

Although he's been performing since 2000, Bishop had a lucrative marketing job by day and performed comedy at night until he made the plunge recently and dived head first into a stand-up career. As well as his own radio show in Liverpool and a popular blog, he has also written the Radio 4 play Happy Families.

Tickets are £10-£12 and the show starts at 8pm. To book call (01223) 511511.

Best of Zep

WITH rumours of a Led Zeppelin reunion world tour still unconfirmed, there's a chance to see the next best thing at the Cambridge Corn Exchange on Saturday.

Boot Led Zeppelin are the UK's top Led Zep tribute act and perform a stage show including authentic costumes, stage effects and music from across the band's eight studio albums.

Tickets are £14.50-£16. To book call (01223) 357851.

The classics

CLASSICAL guitarist Tim Christmas will be performing Renaissance and Baroque music at Great St Mary's Church in Cambridge on Saturday at 3pm.

The programme features works by John Dowland, Robert de Visee, Henry Purcell and Bach and includes Greensleeves and Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring.

Tickets are £7 on the door.

Operatic masterpieces fill the week

THE English Touring Opera (ETO) company returns to the Cambridge Arts Theatre next week with three operas from across the centuries.

On Tuesday and Friday, May 2, the ETO will stage Mozart's masterpiece Don Giovanni, which has been set by the company against the backdrop of Franco's post war Spain and is being directed by West End and RSC regular Jonathan Munby.

On Wednesday and Saturday, May 3, the company will be tackling Donizetti's historical Tudor drama Anna Bolena, which tells the story of Henry VIII and his wives. Julie Unwin plays Anne Boleyn with Julia Riley is Jane Seymour. The cast also includes Brazilian tenor Luciano Botelho.

Thursday, May 1, will see the UK professional premiere of Carlisle Floyd's 1955 opera, Susannah. The contemporary retelling of the biblical story of Susanna and the elders features Donna Bateman in the lead role and includes soprano arias, folk-inspired dance and a dramatic orchestral score.

All shows are at 7.30pm. Tickets are £10-£35. To book call (01223) 503333.

Sentimental jazz man Marti does it his way

By Nik Shelton

"THE highs and the lows are what make you the man that you are."

Marti Pellow has certainly experienced both triumphant highs and crushing lows – but he's reached the point in his life where he can now be philosophical about it all.

The Wet Wet Wet lead singer rose from a run-down area of Glasgow to front one of the most successful British pop groups of all time – their astonishing 15-week run at the top of the charts with Love Is All Around is unlikely to be beaten by a UK artist any time soon.

But by the late 1990s the wheels started to fall off the Wet Wet Wet juggernaut amid Marti's self destructive heroin addiction and internal divisions over royalty payments.

Against all odds, however, both Wet Wet Wet and Marti – free again from his drug demons – are now back on top and in fine fettle. The Wets released their first new album in a decade last year with Timeless and reached the top 10 with the single Weightless. And now Marti is carving a new jazz flavoured solo career, which has included the recent album of crooner classics, Sentimental Me.

■ BACK ON TOP . . . Wet Wet Wet frontman Marti Pellow. CP.

"This is something a wee bit different that I'm trying," he says. "But you've got to watch what you're saying when you use the word 'jazz' because people might get a little bit scared.

"Last year I did a week's residency at Ronnie Scott's and I put together a two-hour show. I thoroughly enjoyed it, so much so that after I'd finished I just got up the next day and went straight into the studio with the band and recorded the whole album over the following couple of weeks."

It was something he says has taken him 40 years to get around to doing. But when he did he wanted to make sure it was done properly and on his own terms.

"It was important to me that I changed the arrangements of these songs and to be able to take on that task your pencil has to be extremely sharp.

"I didn't want to just emulate what had been done by Frank Sinatra and Tony Bennet. There's so many people who think they can sing this stuff just by putting on a new pair of shoes and a shiny suit and then they do it extremely badly.

"Frank Sinatra did it with great clarity and impeccable taste. It's about personalising these songs and doing my interpretation of them."

Marti Pellow plays the Cambridge Corn Exchange tomorrow. Tickets are £25-£30. To book call (01223) 357851.

Aries Mar21 - Apr20

When it comes to love, the direct approach works best. If you have a crush on someone, make your feelings known. You won't have to use lots of pretty words to win this person's heart. In fact, the more plainly you speak, the better.

Taurus Apr21 - May21

You'll be more assertive than usual in romantic situations. You're tired of waiting for your amour to make the first move. Fortunately, the object of your affection will be delighted by your overtures. Make a case for why you deserve a pay raise.

Cancer Jun23 - Jul23

You don't really care what people think, which makes you popular so don't be surprised if you're invited to lots of parties and get togethers. If you're single, let a friend set you up on a blind date. You might just meet someone sexy.

Leo Jul24 - Aug23

You're very reserved, and with good reason. It's not clear whether you can trust someone yet. Maintain a "wait and see" strategy. You'll get more insight to this person's character by watching their actions than listening to their words.

Vibrant works from zigzag street

A CAMBRIDGE artist has been transforming the city's streets through a series of multi- dimensional, highly colourful paintings.
Nicholas James Juett teaches art at Melbourn Village College and also works at Wysing Arts Centre in Bourn. His strange, distorted and imaginative views of the city's urban areas are being displayed in an exhibition at Number 5, Dale's Brewery on Gwydir Street until May 4.
"It started with me using my mobile phone and just walking down the street taking photographs," he explained. "Either everyone ignores me like when I go down Mill Road or if I go down Sedley Taylor Road or Queen Edith's Way I have been accosted by people coming out of their houses asking me if I'm casing the joint.
"I'll then start to draw it out, flipping from picture to picture on my laptop. It's a composite image so in reality you can't see all the views I use because I zigzag across the road as I go. It creates more of the experience of walking down the street rather than looking at it from a static point."
The resulting oil paintings and their vibrant use of colour will be juxtaposed in the exhibition with watercolour views of the city's streets painted by another artist, Richard Jakins.
The exhibition also includes glass sculptures by Hannah Louise Barker, children's illustrations by Amanda Hall and stark abstract pieces by Toby Sanders.
The exhibition is open from 10am to 5pm Monday to Friday, and between 11am and 5pm on Sundays.

‘What Diesel’ lists star car winners

WITH diesel registrations close to smashing the 50 per cent barrier of the new car market, the annual What Diesel “Car of the Year” award winners are announced by Ian Robertson, editor of What Diesel magazine.

Voted on by a panel of ten esteemed judges, including Sue Baker, Russell Bray and Simon Hacker amongst others, the ten What Diesel “Car Of The Year” category winners epitomise what is the very best of modern diesel engined motoring.

In announcing the winners, editor Ian Robertson, said: “This year has seen some tough opposition join the new car market, with the Fiat 500 and Jaguar XF leading the pack.

“There are also some familiar names lining up to collect awards, with the Citroën C4 Grand Picasso, Ford Mondeo, Land Rover Freelander 2 and Nissan Qashqai joining the honours list for the second year running.”

“I am delighted to announce that the Jaguar XF has won the coveted title of What Diesel Car of the Year 2008. It is well deserved and is testament to all the fine people that are proud to say that they work for Jaguar. The car drives exceptionally, and looks absolutely stunning and catapults Jaguar right up the road to success.”

Almost a third of all the award winners are British-built (Jaguar XF, Land Rover Freelander 2 and Nissan Qashqai), and that sends out an important message that Britain is at the forefront of the very best of car manufacturing and engineering. In addition, the best large family car, the Ford Mondeo, features engines that are built in the UK, at Ford’s Diesel Centre at Dagenham in Essex.

The awards issue isn’t just concerned with new cars – the What Diesel Used Car of the Year award winners are announced at the same time.

The Volkswagen Golf scooped the best used family hatchback award, as well as being awarded the winner of the What Diesel Used Car of the Year 2008.

There was strong performance from Mitsubishi, with the Shogun and L200 both winning their respective categories.

Excellent values for latest Focus

THE new-look Ford Focus, launched in February, is expected to be worth up to £500 more than the model it replaces when the first examples reach the second-hand market later this year, according to the used car valuation experts at EurotaxGlass's.

List prices for new examples will remain the same as the outgoing Focus – introduced in 2004 – but improved styling and enhanced specification across the range should make the latest-generation model more desirable to used car buyers, suggests EurotaxGlass's.

"The Ford range is full of big sellers, and there is none bigger than the Focus, which has been the UK's best-selling car every year since 1999," comments Johnathan Brown, car editor at EurotaxGlass's.

"High sales volumes inevitably put pressure on the residual values of Fords – with so many examples of each car to choose from, buyers are spoilt for choice, and supply generally satisfies demand.

"When the latest Focus hits the forecourts, however, stocks will be limited for the first few months. Prices will hold up fairly well, reflecting the low level of supply and the anticipated jump in demand for what many perceive to be a more attractive car compared to its predecessor."

When the used car market senses that the new model is available in greater numbers, the Focus may revert to type, as Brown explains. "An increase in supply is expected to erode the price premium, eventually leaving values only marginally ahead of the previous Focus. Much will depend on Ford's approach to handling sales volumes. Putting significant quantities into short-term rental companies, for example, will bring a large number of units back to the second-hand market very quickly. If Ford takes a more controlled approach, values may remain relatively high for many months."

■ BETTER VALUE . . . new Focus residuals value it at £500 more.

Classic cars get more desirable

THE classic car cult is set to go large as more and more British drivers home in on the advantages of owning a car that is cheap to insure, doesn't attract road tax, and has an easy-to-maintain engine.

Even the country's biggest vehicle auctioneers, British Car Auctions (BCA), is forecasting huge demand for classic wheels and has rebranded its Classic and Historic Automobile Division to reflect the changing attitudes and interest in classic cars.

BCA is also predicting increased demand for 1980s models, following the success of Ashes To Ashes, the BBC sequel to retro cop show Life On Mars. The show has brought the return of DCI Gene Hunt, but this time the action takes place in the 1980s, with Hunt swapping his Ford Cortina for an Audi Quattro.

Robin Lawton, head of BCA's Classics department, comments: "People are beginning to feel a sense of nostalgia for 1980s fashions, and this includes cars like the Golf GTI, Rover SD1, Ford Cortina, BMW and Mercedes models of that era, several of which feature in our next classics sale."

Robin Lawton says classic wheels can now cover several generations: "Today's classics are as likely to be from the 1960s, 70s, 80s and even 90s, as from the early 20th century.

"We are seeing a much broader range of cars at our auctions, and the demand for cars from the 1970s and 80s has developed as new collectors and enthusiasts enter the market."

And if you think these motors will be too pricey, then heed Lawton's expert opinion: "It's not just the supercars or prestige vehicles from those years – there is a genuine and growing interest in the defining cars from those decades such as the Mini, Ford Cortina, Rover SDI, and Vauxhall Viva. They were the family cars of their day."

BCA Classics has a website – www.bca-classics.co.uk – which, besides giving sales information, also features a forum for visitors to share information and knowledge on caring for their own classic car.

More importantly, it includes a free online valuation service. Owners submit details of what they own, and receive an estimated value of their pride and joy.

Journalism is often seen as glamorous and exciting but, as with any occupation, success comes only after much hard work and routine activity. However, each working day as a journalist is different and the training you receive will give you the flexibility to cover a wide range of news stories and features.

Journalism draws on all the knowledge and skills you have acquired and can give you a tremendous sense of achievement. If you've got what it takes, journalism could be the career for you!

SO WHERE DO I START?

The NCTJ is the principal provider of journalism qualifications and training and offers a wide variety of training and learning options to suit everyone.

NCTJ qualifications are what editors look for when they are recruiting trainee journalists and these can be gained through full-time, part-time, distance learning or on-the-job training courses. We also offer press photography and photo-journalism training.

For further information about training as a journalist, please visit www.nctj.com where you will find details of all courses offered, locations of study and details of educational requirements.

SPORT: YOUTH RUGBY

James stars but Newmarket fall just short

UNDER-13

Diss Rugby Festival

NEWMARKET completed their season by reaching the semi-finals of the prestigious tournament.
Newmarket kicked off their campaign against the top teams in the region by beating Wymondham 5-0, thanks to a James Ellis-Saunders try.
He then scored all the points in the 15-0 defeat of Colchester B before they lost their final group match 5-0 against Ipswich.
However, second place in their group earned them a quarter-final against Swaffham, who were convincingly beaten 10-0 with Aaron Cawley and Alistair Kingdon getting the tries.
This set up a rematch against Ipswich, who again won 5-0 before going on to victory in the final.

UNDER-NINE

Newmarket 20 Barbarians 10

NEWMARKET opened the round-robin tournament against Ely and Bury St Edmunds with a brilliant performance against the combined Barbarians team.
Millie Lee scored the first try, set up by James Judd, before a sublime passing move involving Lee, Judd and Michael Le sent Jack Nicholas over.
Le scored another before a break from a five-metre scrum led to Bradley Goss scoring.

Newmarket 15 Bury St Edmunds 10

Judd broke through several tackles to score the first try, but that was quickly equalised.
James Connell added another but a series of match-saving tackles from Nicholas prevented Bury from getting away before Judd scored on the whistle.

Newmarket 10 Ely 0

A CLASSIC scrum-half's try from John Murray gave Newmarket the inspiration to go on and beat their arch-enemies in a tough, defensive match.
Joseph Girgis led the resistance, and Judd put the result beyond doubt with the try that clinched the silverware.

UNDER-11

Newmarket 14 Ely 14

NEWMARKET looked to be going through the motions in a slow start against a committed side, and only came to life when Harry Doe came off his wing to drive up to the line and release Jack Morris for the opening try.
Newmarket stepped up a gear after Ely levelled and Ben Bowers gave them the lead before their opponents equalised again.

Newmarket 26 Ely 0

RICHARD Phillips opened the scoring as Newmarket regrouped and started to play to their strengths.
And an unstoppable run from Jack Barker after a penalty put them in charge.
Bob Challinor drove over after sustained pressure to make it 21-0 before the break and, although they made changes at the break and mixed good play with muddled patches, Barker added another try after a superb run and quick release from Michael Bartram.

UNDER-14

Newmarket 35 Saffron Walden 7

ALTHOUGH the wet conditions were more like November than April, Newmarket stormed to victory in their final game of the season.with Jake Cronin setting a club try-scoring record.
Alex Murphy and Andy Teevan consistently stretched Walden's defence and after sustained pressure powerhouse Tom Bircham crashed over to open the scoring.
Jack Moffat then added two tries and with skipper TJ Rowland dictating play from scrum-half Adam Elmer went over before Cronin added his 40th try of the season to go into the record books.
He also kicked five conversions.

IN BRIEF

CRICKET

Fordham in a stalemate

FORDHAM had the better of their opening day clash against Weston Colville in the Tucker Gardner Cambs and Hunts Premier League, Division Two clash.
Openers Mark Silcock and Ian Baldwin laid the foundation for their 249 for 6 with a stand of 146.
Baldwin was first to go for 81, which featured four sixes and nine boundaries, with Silcock, who blasted 11 fours, falling eight runs later for 67. However, the pressure to get more runs led to a flurry of wickets before Graham Arnold added a brisk 40.
Weston Colville's reply leaned heavily on the Westleys, with both Trevor and Adie scoring 56 in their 182 for 5.
Results: Abington 180 for 5 (10pts) Foxton 181 for 6 (20), NCI 235 for 3 (25) Bluntisham 141 (3), Khalsa 278 for 9 (10) Eaton Socon 186 for 3 (11), Waresley 159 for 8 (10) Kimbolton 163 for 9 (20), Fordham 249 for 6 (12) Weston Colville 182 for 5 (7).

VOLLEYBALL

Mesanov, Reid shine in defeats

NEWMARKET'S difficult National League campaign came to an end with defeats by highly-placed Tonbridge and Dulwich Knights.
They had hoped to carry over the form from their Suffolk Cup triumph, but Tonbridge burst their bubble, overturning their early lead to take the set.
The same happened in the next two close-fought sets, although Newmarket were pleased with their overall performance with Nik Mesanov taking the MVP award.
Dulwich, who also beat Tonbridge, maintained that momentum and proved too strong for Newmarket in the first set.
But with Charles Reid pivotal – he went on to earn the first MVP of his career – they stormed ahead in the second and, although they lost, Newmarket's on-court banter and general enjoyment of the game shone through.

SPEEDWAY

Defiant Kaj can't halt Tigers' slump

Mildenhall 41
Isle of Wight 52

PREMIER LEAGUE

A 17-POINT haul from Kaj Laukkanen could not prevent Mildenhall from slumping to their sixth consecutive defeat of the season at West Row on Sunday.

The Finnish ace bounced back from a second place in his opening race to reel off four straight wins in his best performance for the Fen Tigers to date.

But with only Dane Jan Graversen and guest rider Chris Schramm providing any real support, Mildenhall never looked like preventing a third home loss.

Isle of Wight went swiftly into a big lead, 16-8, after just four races with maximums in heats two and four. Graversen sealed a fine race win in heat three after slicing under Pole Krzysztof Stojanowski on the pits turn, but he was on the receiving end of a harsh refereeing exclusion in heat five when he tumbled in a tight first-bend collision.

That incident had further ramifications when Mark Baseby was caught up in the bunching and fell, just three races after having fallen unopposed in his first ride, which forced the in-form reserve to pull out of the meeting after aggravating an ankle injury.

The Islanders were soon further in front, 21-9, until Laukkanen briefly hit back for the Tigers with a blistering tactical ride win for six points. But it only stemmed the visitors' onslaught, as two further heat advantages put them 33-18 ahead.

■ KAJ LAUKKANEN . . . best performance so far.

Graversen responded from his exclusion with victory in heat nine, and with Schramm shoving aside Glen Phillips to join him for a home maximum, the margin was reduced to 11 points (23-34).

Mildenhall's top three all took the chequered flag in the next four heats, but debutant Finn Jari Makinen and struggling James Cockle could not grab any minor placings.

The Tigers are at Redcar tonight in the Premier League KO Cup, with the second leg at West Row on Sunday

Mildenhall – Laukkanen 17 (5 rides), Graversen 11 (6), Schramm 8+1 (5), Makinen 2+1 (5), Baseby 2 (2), Cockle 1 (7).

Isle of Wight – Gathercole 1 1+2 (5 rides), Holder 9 (4), Stojanowski 8+1 (4), Bunyan 7+2 (5), Fry 7+1 (4), Phillips 6+2 (4), Bargh 4+3 (4).

Quinn's going Native in bid to stave off injuries

Racing by Peter Scargill

THE start of a new season gives individuals a chance to make a mark and set themselves up for a positive year ahead.

Few, then, have done better than jockey Jimmy Quinn who has already landed the biggest handicap to be run this year, the Lincoln, on Smokey Oakey.

The victory at Doncaster has not come in isolation either with the diminutive Irishman rattling in the winners with alarming consistency.

Of his early-season form Quinn said: "There's nothing special, it's basically the trainers I've been riding for.

"However, having the Lincoln winner was a big boost, though, as it gets a lot of coverage and I get better rides for it."

Quinn's start to the season is even more impressive considering he suffered breaks to his T3 and T4 vertebrae in a fall at Doncaster late last year.

"I was out for 11 weeks in total," says Quinn. "I still have treatment on it every week to keep it in tack."

And the prospect of renewing links with Kingsgate Native is a massive incentive for the Co Wexford-born jockey to keep off the treatment table.

Quinn said: "I'm looking forward to riding Kingsgate Native again. So far I've ridden him twice and he's won a Group One and been second in another."

For all his successes as a jockey, Quinn's victory aboard John Best's sprinter was his first at the top level. He said: "You wait all these years to ride a Group One winner. It was a great feeling. Brilliant."

Quinn's small stature has always made him popular with trainers in big handicaps but size is not what has put Jimmy at the top of his profession.

Quinn said: "I've always had a reputation for being a strong jockey not just a lightweight one.

"But now I've won a Group One I am getting better rides in the big races."

So having broken his Group One duck and with another big handicap victory on the board, what races remain for Quinn to conquer?

He said: "I like to win the big handicaps such as the Ebor and the Stewards Cup, they're the real jockeys' races.

"Obviously I'd like to win the Epsom Derby but you have to be realistic when it comes to races like that. I've never even had a ride in it!"

Despite his fast start to the season past experience has taught Quinn to be philosophical when it comes to ambitions for the months ahead.

Quinn said: "I always aim to equal or better the season gone. I would like to ride as many winners as possible and with the rides I'm getting I'd hope for three figures.

"However, I've learned to take it as it comes and I enjoy life much more."

■ BIG WIN . . . Jimmy Quinn acknowledges the cheers after winning the Lincoln on Smokey Oakey.

Noseda in bid to get Frankie on board

JEREMY Noseda hopes Frankie Dettori will be available to ride Sixties Icon in the stanjamesuk.com Jockey Club Stakes at Newmarket on Sunday week – a race they won last year.

Dettori also partnered the son of Galileo to win the 2006 St Leger and although Sixties Icon disappointed twice afterwards, Noseda is confident the horse is back in good nick and liked what he saw in a recent Newmarket gallop.

"I was more than satisfied with Sixties Icon's work. It was a nice, easy piece and he was relaxed, did everything right," he said. "He has come out of it well and is on schedule for the Jockey Club Stakes at Newmarket when, hopefully, Frankie will be able to renew his (competitive) association with the horse."

Ups and downs . . .

Swaffham 3
Newmarket 17

EASTERN COUNTIES TWO

MICHAEL Reeves scored 12 points as Newmarket sealed promotion.

The stand-in skipper scored two tries – one of which he converted – and even proved a capable stand-in loose-head prop when James Tilbrook went off injured. Richard Harper scored the other try to seal the win and spark the celebrations.

Head coach Dave Sayer, who took on the role at the beginning of the campaign, said: "It was a bizarre day – I can remember the final whistle and then nothing until Sunday morning!

"We were always in control and Swaffham knew they were beaten fair and square.

"We dominated all the set-pieces and the contact areas and the backs were free to run wild. I would call it a positive and professional job. We went there to kill them off and that's what we did."

And the coach believes his men have what it takes to hold their own in Eastern Counties One next season after guiding them to promotion in double-quick time.

Sayer said: "It was a two-year plan when I started and we've got promoted in one year, so everyone at the club is very happy with that. The young players are ready and they've got a good five years of rugby left in them and I'm confident of doing well next season – it will be a challenge, not a worry."

Walsham le Willows 2
Newmarket 1

RIDGEONS LEAGUE, PREMIER DIVISION

THE Jockeys' relegation was finally confirmed at Walsham-le-Willows on Saturday.

Dalton O'Brien scored his second goal in two games – he also scored in the 4-2 defeat by Lowestoft in midweek – to put Newmarket in front.

But Walsham equalised after a mistake by keeper Matt Paynter, who gifted a home striker the ball, and the hosts sent the Jockeys down with a killer second goal midway through the second half.

Newmarket boss Karl Johnson said: "I thought once we scored one, we'd win three or four nil, but again we missed the killer touch.

"We were down weeks ago really, because we would have had to win all of our remaining 11 games or something to make sure we were safe, but we've just got to regroup next season."

Wroxham 0 Mildenhall 2

RIDGEONS LEAGUE, PREMIER DIVISION

THIS time last season Mildenhall were battling Wroxham for the league title.

But with both sides out of the championship race, Saturday's meeting was merely a matter of pride and it was 'Hall who claimed the bragging rights with goals from Stephen Spiggs and Dave Werthmann.

Mildenhall are at home to Leiston on Saturday.
